

WEDDING

A quiet wedding was celebrated February 7th when Miss June Wills was united in marriage to George Melnechuk of Stettin. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Hudson at the home of F. Howe, Swallow. Witnesses were A. Melnechuk and Ellen Howe. The bride was given away by W. Howe to the strains of the wedding march. Mr. and Mrs. Melnechuk will reside in Swallow.

BUTTER COUPON DATES REVISED

With the butter ration reduced from six ounces to four ounces per week, valid dates of coupons are altered, ration officials announce. During March and April one butter coupon will be valid every two weeks. Instead of three coupons valid every four weeks.

The butter coupon calendar for March and April is as follows: March 21 R-3, April 4 R-4, April 18 R-7.

Depleted reserve stocks, lower winter production, increased consumption made the butter ration cut necessary. R. Hon. J. L. Hilly stated, announcing that it is hoped to return the ration to six ounces at least when the seasonal increase in domestic production takes place in the spring.

New Cars Come Under Priority

As the first new cars become available, priority certificate may be applied for by eligible consumers at the nearest Prices Board office. Need for a car, its business use will be considered. The applicant is advised not to dispose of a serviceable passenger car in hope of obtaining a new one.

Priority lists include Class A among whom are physicians and surgeons, public health nurses, and other services in special public services.

Class B includes discharged members of the armed services, in various categories of business needs.

STEPPING UP NYLONS

Figures on nylon show improved supply. 2,121,510 pairs shipped across Canada for February's Nylon Day. In October there were 1,441 dozen pairs of nylon manufactured. 20,952 dozen pairs in November. 50,140 dozen pairs in December. 57,022 dozen pairs in January. Production of nylon and hosiery continues.

Some Trades Need Licenses

The only building trades which now require Prices Board licenses for new or repair work are painting, decorating, plumbing and heating according to Prices Board officials.

Waiving of license regulations does not affect cable prices for work, and any operating doing repair work is obliged to observe ceiling regulations.

We all want a family of nations. But is our own family a pattern for the kind we want to see.

Greater Wheat Acreage Needed to Meet Famine

Line Elevators Urge Government to Increase Acreage Objective

The Dominion government was urged to request Canadian farmers to grow the maximum possible wheat acreage this year and to undertake to accept deliveries from farmers of all wheat grown in order to alleviate world wheat famine conditions, in a message forwarded to Prime Minister King by Cecil Lamont, president of the North-West Line Elevator Association.

"From a review of the world wheat situation it is apparent that there must be drastic upward revision in the Dominion government's agricultural production objectives for wheat acreage in 1946. Wheat acreage objective for this year has been set at same figure as 1945, namely 23,444,000 acres for all Canada. This is 5,312,200 acres less than the acreage sown to wheat in 1940. The government is fully aware of the shortage of food preventing throughout the world and to meet this situation it is imperative to increase cereal production as the most effective means of alleviating the critical famine conditions prevailing.

"Within six months Canada will be harvesting the new crop and Canada's grain handling machinery is such that this crop could be poured into food shortage areas immediately thereafter. There is no universal foodstuff that can be produced in the quantities required as rapidly as wheat. From a nutritional standpoint such foods as meats, dairy and poultry products are desirable for a balanced diet but their production and movement to market requires greater time. With shipyarding plentiful what is the logical foodstuff to cope with starvation conditions prevailing throughout large areas of the world.

"While we realize, according to the long range agricultural policies of the government, any practice it would seem temporarily not to be aimed in favor of an imperative course, which will ensure the greatest possible production of the food sustaining food which can be produced and delivered in quantities most readily. To this end we urge that the government request Canadian farmers to produce all the wheat within their powers of production in 1946 and furthermore that the government undertake to accept delivery from farmers of all wheat grown this year.

"The Line Elevator Companies would like to meet every possible assistance to the government in publicizing such policy and to ensure the seedling of the greatest possible acreage of wheat this year and the expedition, movement of the crop to needy countries."

REPORT PRESENTED BY ACME PHONE LINE

The 11th annual meeting of the Acme Mutual Telephone Company Ltd. was held on Monday, February 19th. The secretary, J. B. Meek, reported on the work done during 1945, and the financial statement showed the company has a fair bank balance with a financial reserve of $250 in Victoria Bonds.

The chairman, R. W. Brown, pointed out that the company had 171 interurbans and 159 of these were subscribers. These with other subscribers on the other lines of the company are in with the Acme switchboard they can converse with free of charge.

Following directors were appointed for 1946: A. R. Rogers, R. J. Thomas, R. W. Brown, C. W. Randall, and W. B. Stevens. H. Davis, president of the company since it was organized in 1935, declined another nomination.

Nylons in the News

Although nylon will officially begin its harvesting on February 19th, many leading shops have stated that they will not be sold that day.

Taking warning from stories of other places where crowds have stormed the counters and broken furniture and fixtures in a rush to get nylons, these shops are wary of making any announcement to the effect that nylons are coming back into the picture.

One Ottawa merchant came out with a good-sized advertisement saying he "would not be selling nylons on the 19th."

Nevertheless, today is the last of the new nylon hose. There will be four grades: 40, 45, 50 and 55. The highest quality with a gauge of 57 threads. There will also be four qualities in each grade. Nylon is the story in a nutshell.

Gauge special Flat Bottom 40: $1.75 $1.50 $1.25 $1.00. 45: $1.95 $1.75 $1.50 $1.25. 50: $2.15 $1.95 $1.75 $1.50. 55: $2.35 $2.15 $1.95 $1.75. These prices are as low and as good as ever lower than the 1941 prices.

Each stocking must bear the name "Eaton". The gauge must be readily marked and clearly visible to the buyer. The quality must also be clearly marked, such as "40", "45", "50" and "55".

For everyday wear such as office, business, etc., women will find a good serviceable hose in 40 or 45. For the highest quality with a gauge of 57 threads, there may be slight flaws now and then before they reach the level of standardization. New factory workers and few machine will take time to become adjusted to the work, but the future in nylon manufacture in Canada is bright.

ITEMS OF INTEREST IN THE WORLD OF FOODSTUFFS

Argentina will shortly reduce wheat exports to 500,000 tons as well as to South American countries because of the small harvest this year. As a result of drought in South Africa is expected to have to import 9 million bushels of corn. It is estimated that France will need 85 million bushels of wheat to cover requirements until the new crop is harvested.

The 1945 Egyptian rice crop is officially estimated at 4,251,000 bushels, a 5 percent increase over the 1944 crop. Official reports from the United Kingdom indicate that the acreage planted to wheat last fall was close to the goal of 25 million acres.

OFF THE RECORD

OTTAWA—Talking about honest advertising, it should be observed that the report in Ottawa indicating that new nylon stockings for women being put up for sale on Canadian stores counter this month are expected to be a real run on them immediately that they are placed on the counters!

THE GOOD SERVANT

Although efficient fire prevention organization has resulted in a reduction in the city and town destruction of life and property in our rural areas continues almost unchecked. Scarcely a day passes without some reference to loss of life and property on farms and small rural communities. The following suggestions were followed there would be fewer fires and fewer lives lost.

1. Handle gasoline and kerosene with care at all times.
2. Don't light fires with kerosene or gas; you can almost be sure that you will ring the bell at the "Party Games."
3. Make sure that all heating appliances are well built and that the flues are clean and be proper air space is allowed between pipes and walls or partitions with proper air space entering walls and chimneys.
4. Take care with cigarettes and matches—Break the match to be sure it is out.
5. Don't fasten barred wire to your building. Lightning may be conducted and fire result.
6. Don't neglect to fireproof your hay fields, barns and orchards, but it is.
7. Keep a ladder, axe and pry bar handy—FOR FIRES ONLY.

District May Have Health Units

A health unit, established embracing the city of Drumheller, L.D. 11 and 42, municipal districts of Starbuck and Kneehill, was recommended at a meeting of the board in Drumheller Thursday evening, presided over by Miss H. Marston, of the provincial department of health, Edmonton.

The recommendation is to be carried back to the various districts for ratification.

The meeting was organized by Gordon E. Taylor, who expressed hope that from this meeting will come a nucleus of a health unit. The area has a combined population of more than 20,000 persons. There is even indication that if the issue is approved that it will mean establishing two units to cover the district.

MAIN HIGHWAYS TO BE HARD SURFACED

Proposed highways improvement program for Alberta this year includes hard surfacing of main highways, according to information which the Alberta Motor Association has received from the vicinal department of public works.

Details of the program will be announced when preliminary studies have been completed by the departmental engineers.

Hon. W. A. Taylor, minister of public works, has stated that the program includes hard surfacing to a considerable extent of the main highway from the international boundary north to Edmonton. He says this highway has carried a big traffic load in the war years and now it must be put in proper shape to handle prospective postwar traffic, including a flood of tourists.

The program also contemplates improvements to the "Trans-Canada" highway between Calgary and Banff and the Jasper highway from Edmonton west.

The department also is proposing to make extensive improvements to district and market roads in the province. The extent of the program will be governed largely by the response by private contractors to calls for tenders on various projects, some of the call for tenders will be made immediately.

Brooks Curlers Visit Rockyford

Two visits to curlers from Brooks paid a friendly call on tele neighbors at Rockyford, recently and enjoyed Rockyford hospitality and a couple of games in the St. Rita's church. The curlers are from the $1,000 rink here. The visitors were enthusiastic over the splendid rink and the manner in which the district had succeeded in erecting this fine modern structure.

The splendid convenience for a large number of spectators in a rink is being well received. The rink is being well received by the rink officials and providing a curling rink for the rink officials. The rink is being well received by the rink officials.

After enjoying a game the visitors were entertained at a banquet between the game in real Rockyford style, and left for home full of appreciation for the splendid hospitality shown to their curling friends.

More visits of this kind will be in order, and a promoter invitation was given for the Rockyford to visit Brooks.

The splendid rink will be a well equipped rink, and one of the most up-to-date rinks in Alberta.

The way to fight for a new rink is to fight with every curler with each other in the old one.

Health LEAGUE OF CANADA PRESENTS TOPICS OF CANADA VITAL INTEREST

INQUESTS ASKED IN DIPHTHERIA DEATHS
Recent statement of Dr. McGeen Brock Chisholm, Deputy Minister of National Health, that any danger from diphtheria is "from ignorance and superstition which prevents parents from giving children the protection of toxoid treatment, and from support from prominent officials of the Health League of Canada."

Dr. Nelson Silverthorne, chairman of the League's National Immunization Committee, said the truth of Dr. Chisholm's statement was borne out by the fact that of the seven children who died during the current diphtheria outbreak in Ottawa, not one had been immunized.

"This tragic evidence alone proves the value of toxoid," Dr. Silverthorne said. "It is beyond comprehension why parents neglect to have their children given harmless toxoid protection when such protection is so easily obtainable in Canada today. It's too bad that it takes an epidemic to make people realize the truth," he said in commenting on the fact that attendance at Ottawa's clinics for toxoid injections has increased more than 300 per cent, since the outbreak's start.

Dr. Gordon Bates, General Director of the League, said he agrees with Dr. Chisholm that vigorous action is necessary.

"I trust that the 'Health Week'—February 2nd to 9th—will do much to draw to the attention of all Canadians the fact that much disease is readily preventable. For instance, universal use of toxoid will wipe out diphtheria. National Immunization Week last fall called attention to the known facts, but still there are thousands of parents who have been too indifferent to act."

"If parents, knowing the facts, are still too indifferent and careless to protect their children by having them toxoided, the time may come when such parents may be held responsible."

I suggest a corner's inquest in the case of diphtheria deaths might serve to awaken the public conscience.

Dr. Bates remarked that Health Minister Jose R. Andrews of Cuba recently ordered that protection against diphtheria for all children under eight years of age be made compulsory.

Apparently that is what we need in this country," he said.

Seamen's Comforts

Daughters of The Empire Have Performed A Wonderful Service For Crews of Ships

During the war years, the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire provided comforts and amenities to British, Canadian and Allied Seamen valued at nearly one million dollars according to Mrs. H. R. Angus, National War Service Convener. This assistance has been given in various ways. Thousands of games and puzzles, millions of magazines, over a million new and donated books have been provided through the Order for seamen in hotels, hospitals, the naval libraries and at sea.

It is of interest to note that not only have books in English and French been given but, to meet requests of Dutch, Polish, Norwegian and Greek seamen who put into Canadian ports, for books in their own language, appeals were made by the Order in the United States and Canada for these books which were received and placed on the ships.

At the request of the Department of Naval Services, I.O.D.E. chapters "adopted" a total of 349 ships and provided thousands of dollars worth of amenities and extra for the crews of these adopted ships. An example of a letter received from a man on one of our corvettes reads: "Everything we have ever had given for us done for us seems to be connected with the I.O.D.E. in some way."

I.O.D.E. members have also rendered help to shipwrecked seamen's families in Canada and abroad and in past ten years have supplied large numbers of ditty bags which were distributed by the Navy League of Canada.

In addition, comforts have been provided in both Canadian and British ports, the I.O.D.E. operating distribution centres at St. John's, N.E. and Sydney, N.S., and according to the Special Services Officer of the Royal Canadian Navy, the I.O.D.E. was the chief source of supply of knitted comforts for seamen distributed by Naval Distributing Centres at Halifax and other Canadian ports. Since the beginning of the war a constant flow of comforts has been sent for sailors of the Navy and seamen of the Merchant Navy in British waters. The organizations receiving I.O.D.E. comforts for distribution were the Royal National Mission to Deep Sea Fishermen, the British Sailors' Society, and the Depot for Knitted Garments for the Royal Navy. Although the latter depot has been closed recently, shipments of seamen's comforts are still being sent to the Royal National Mission and to the British Sailors' Society, both of whom have been very helpful in getting such aid to seamen in peace as well as in war, one of them having been in operation for over 100 years.

Owing to the extreme shortage of clothing in Britain, it has been, and still is, very difficult for relatives and friends to provide the necessary comforts for seamen. The I.O.D.E. members have been very happy to give in the past and will continue to give as long as it is needed.

Germany Is To Be Allowed To Produce 7,500,000 Tons A Year
Germany is to be allowed a maximum steel production capacity of 7,500,000 tons a year but her actual output must not exceed 5,800,000 tons without specific approval, the Allied Control Council decided. The steel plants to be left to Germany shall be the older ones as far as practicable, it was agreed. German steel production in 1939 was 11,600,000 tons, which had doubled by 1938 under the Nazi government.

Gripsholm Model Was Their Wedding Present

ALFALF BOUND, MELT RED TAPE—"It can't be done," everyone said. So Ste. Francis Joseph Yanchuk of Guelph, Ont., did it. Honorably discharged from the R.C.A.M. in September, he returned to Italy as a civilian, married the daughter of an Italian count, and returned in time to spend as still gathering bits of red tape, thrown to the four winds by the determined couple. "Frank" met his bride-to-be, Lina Ragusa, while serving with an army hospital unit in Italy. He proposed marriage, was accepted, Col. F. B. Bowman, of Hamilton, Ont., his commanding officer, absolutely forbade the marriage. A determined young man, Frank wrote to Ottawa—the colonel's head. In April, 1945—a year later—permission to wed the Italian was arrived. Frank was aboard. Bishop Pietro Caputo personally officiated in Caserta cathedral. Among the guests were 700 townspeople, all of whom had firmly believed Lina would never see her Canadian fiancé.

Played Major Part Veteran Repair Squad

A Long-Distance Detection Device Helped Win Battle Of Atlantic

The United States Navy disclosed the wartime secret of "Huff Duff," an electronic long-distance device which played a major part in winning the battle of the Atlantic.

Technically called the high frequency direction finder (the initials HF-DF rapidly became "Huff Duff" in slang) the electronic "finger" can spot a ship or plane half-way around the world. It was used as a team-mate of radar and sound devices which spot objectives at a much shorter distance. The navy told how the device on board ships, planes and in a network of shore stations succeeded in breaking up U-boat wolf packs before they could assemble and how at least one of the submarines which landed saboteurs on the Long Island and Florida coasts in 1942 was located and sunk before it could escape.

When a hail was severely damaged by enemy action, Priority Park Club, a Hersey Social Club, whose ages ranged from 62 to 90, repaired their own repairs, reports the Evening News, London. When they finished the job, the building was wrecked a second time but they took even this philosophically and put the place in order again. A rocket finally did more damage than the other two bombs put together and the work of repairing the building has taken considerably longer. The veteran repair squad has now completed its self-appointed task for the third time and are planning a victory celebration in the renovated building. "We have had to repair the roof, the walls, the fittings and the furniture, to say nothing of replacing the windows," said Councillor A. J. Blake, the 71-year-old secretary.

LUNCHEON LYRICS—There'll be treats galore in the lunchboxes this Winter if you base all your surprises on Bran Nut Bread. This delicious easy-to-make bread can be varied to suit your tastes—fold in any of the dried fruits, or orange juice. And occasionally, vary the shape by making muffins instead of a loaf. Here's an idea for dressing Bran Nut Bread in party fashion: make the basic recipe, then fold in gumdrops in place of fruit!

Bran Nut Bread
1 egg
1 cup sugar
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons melted shortening
1 cup bran
2 1/2 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons baking powder

Beat egg and sugar until light. Add milk, shortening and bran. Sift flour with salt and baking powder; combine with nutmixture; add to first mixture, stirring only until flour disappears. Spread in greased loaf pan, with waxed paper in the bottom. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about 1 hour and 10 minutes.

Yield: 1 loaf (4 1/2 x 9 1/2 in. pan).

Variations of Basic Recipe
1. Use 1/2 cup nutmixture and add 1 cup seedless raisins.
2. Use 1/2 cup nutmixture and add 1 cup chopped dates.
3. Use 1/2 cup nutmixture and add 1 cup raisins and 1/2 cup water for the 1 cup milk.
4. Add 1 tablespoon grated orange rind.
Note: Nutmixture may be omitted in first three variations if desired.

REG'LAR FELLERS—Interior Decoration

A Coveted Honor

British Order of Merit Is Given To Few People

One of Britain's most coveted honors, the Order of Merit is conferred for outstanding achievement. No more than 24 persons may add the initials O.M. to their name, among them General Eisenhower. When Britain's press announced a few weeks ago that King George VI had bestowed the Order of Merit on Professor A. N. Whitehead, eminent mathematician, physicist, philosopher and lecturer at Cambridge University, England, and Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass., the man in the street was more impressed than the Professor had been made a lord.

"The Order of Merit is unlike any other honor which may be conferred on a British citizen. For one thing, it carries no title and confers no precedence; its possessor has no extra privileges whatever. Instituted in 1902 by King Edward VII, the Order is presented to some persons 'as may have rendered exceptionally meritorious service in the Crown Services of our Empire' and has rendered exceptionally meritorious service towards the advancement of the Arts, Learning, Literature and Science."

In fact to receive it a person must have given such service to Britain in one or more of these spheres that no other honor meets his case.

"The blazing sun shocked the air into rippling waves of heat that shimmered over the inert forms of horses and cattle, and emphasized the starkness of Ed Higgins' bare, unpainted barn, rising in ugly contrast behind the neat little bungalow, with its bright green paint and white trimmings, that his wife called 'home'."

From behind her apologetically curtained kitchen window Mary Higgins gazed outward. Her thin face looked drawn, but her cotton dress was as fresh as her polished kitchen. She shook her head at the memory of Ed's parting words that morning.

"I've done all I can, Marty," he'd said. "If Ed won't fight for him self—"

"I can't understand his giving in so easy." There was more disappointment than sorrow in Marty's voice. "Stubborn old man, he gave me enough trouble any time I wanted him to do anything, good or bad, and now to let go peacefully down him without a fight!"

The brown collar beneath her questioning eyes. He cocked one ear expectantly toward the bedroom door behind which Ed lay his snuck on checks under the unkindest whickers made evidence of the ravages of the first serious illness of his robust life. How unlike the gaiety and his courtship days!

"Twenty years, Rusty, and now when he's needed most he quits." Marty gazed past the ugly structures of maked wood to the roving wheat-covered "valleys of prairie beauty."

The sun was beginning to turn its greenness into the golden ripeness of harvest, and this year every nuance would be needed, for the war had hollowed the prairie of too many of her sons.

RUSTY waggled his tail in slow agreement. It was seven years since that came on a furry little pup, to live with Marty and Ed, and this was the first time in the battle that had started twenty years ago, when first Marty had staked her place for

"Painted buildings on a prairie farm. What's the matter with 'em the way they are?" Ed had scoffed. "You don't hear my cattle complain and wantin' new barns with paint on 'em, do you, and they seem to manage alright."

"But I'm not one of your cattle, Ed, and I want a decent home with paint on it, even if they don't," Marty had replied with aggravating sweetness. "If you want to live with them, go ahead, but I'm having my home the way I want it."

Ed had evidently preferred Marty's house, and she proudly flaunted her neat bungalow in its bright coat of green as evidence of her victory in the round of the battle, but the second round was not so easy.

"Just naturally contrary. If I didn't want you to paint them, you would. You'd think that we were paupers instead of successful farmers. Marty often repeated in exasperation as one unpainted structure after another was raised to show Ed's increasing stock of cattle."

"Twenty years," Marty repeated and shook her head. Little by little she began to prepare a tray for Ed's supper. He'd passed the crisis days ago, but the strength that should be returning now was gradually ebbing away. But the strength that should be returning now was gradually ebbing away. But the strength that should be returning now was gradually ebbing away.

"The dog watched Marty carry the tray into the bedroom, to return a few minutes later with his contents scarcely touched."

"Rusty, if I only could rouse him somehow! I've pleaded with him, I've begged him, tried to get him busy with the need of the crops we'll harvest this year—the darned old fool's just going to die out of sheer stubbornness."

"The sun was sinking in a blaze of golden glory when she returned to the window. Dining even the bare walls of Ed's barn with a nearly healthy."

"Wonder what Ed would say if we painted them pink, Rusty?" There was a challenging note in Ed's tone on the pillow, did not notice it. "All right, I guess."

Marty sat down on the chair by his bed. "Ed," she said. "I've decided that since you're so set on dying, I may as well begin managing the farm my way now so later."

"Yes, Ed, and the first thing I'm going to do is paint these barns. I've stood them for twenty years for your sake, but if I've to carry on alone I'm going to do it my way."

"Yes," Rusty said up. "Yes," Marty continued. "I hear that Barner Hardware in town has a special on in paint, so I've made out an order. They've got that nice bright red like the Smiths'."

"Over my dead body!" Marty smiled a little at the near-possibility of that picture. "Whatever gave you the idea that I'd leave you to run the place to suit yourself? Red paint, on my barns—Ed, lay back, his snoken eyes flashing."

MARTY retreated to the kitchen. There was a sudden brightness in her eyes. Rusty stopped a moment to lick the pole face of his invalid master before following. Ed's voice, rising in angry protest against the added indignity, convinced him that life was again assuming its normal proportions."

"Red paint—dirt you, dog! Marty, bring me an egg-bag or something. Red paint! Time I got up to see that them barns are painted a respectable color—hurry up, I'm hungry. Red paint, trust you'll!"

"Red paint!" Marty echoed thankfully. "Rusty, looks like we've won a double-header this time. Hold your horses, I'm coming."

SMILE AWHILE

The old lady kept to her seat determinedly as the slowly moving congregation passed down the aisle to the church door.

"If anybody else would only do as I do, and stay quietly in their seats until everyone has left," she murmured, "there wouldn't be such a crush at the doors."

"Well, what's the trouble?" asked the doctor of the patient who had called for him urgently. "That's for you to find out, the patient answered grumpily."

"In that case, I'll call in a friend of mine. He's a vet," answered the doctor. "He's the only man I know who can make a diagnosis without asking questions."

"Teacher said this morning, 'Hand up, all these children who had an egg for breakfast.'"

"So I put my hand up because I was going to have one for tea."

Mrs. Newveld: "Henry, I thought you told me that your barn had caught on fire."

Mrs. Newveld: "So it does, dear. Why?"

Mrs. Newveld: "Well, it doesn't, I went the main door with a note telling them I wanted to borrow $100 and they wouldn't give it to her."

Old Brown (lecturing his grandnephew): "I never see a bludge on a girl's face now. In my day it was very different."

Flapper: "Why, Grandpa, what did you say to them?"

Husband: "Darling, I believe that I am falling."

Wife: (in alarm)—"Gracious! How often would I wanted you, George, against your foolish speculation."

Blonde: "I don't mean in business, dear. I mean I'm falling in love."

Wife (retired)—"Oh, is that all?"

"Pop, if I saved you a dollar, would you give me 50 cents of it?"

"Yes, I guess, son."

"Well, I saved it for you. You told me you would give me a dollar if I passed in arithmetic, and I didn't pass."

Price Control And Rationing Information

Q.—When I was discharged from the services I did not make use of my priority and purchase certificate. The month has now elapsed and I would like to know if I am still eligible for this priority suit.

A.—Branches and Local Ration Boards of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board have authority to extend the validity period of priority suit purchase certificates, if they are satisfied the applicants have been unable to use them within the month allowed.

Q.—Why are the sugar and preserves ration coupons being cancelled in 1947?

A.—To simplify our rationing system and to reduce the number of coupons required for 1946 purchases of sugar and preserves and thus to extend the life of ration book 5.

Q.—My son is in the American Forces. Will he be given a priority suit purchase certificate when he returns from the United States to take up residence in Canada?

A.—Priority suit purchase certificates will be issued to Canadians who have been discharged from the American Forces and who are returning to reside in Canada, provided that applicants are able to establish that they are Canadian citizens discharged from the American Army May 1, 1945, and that they have a notation placed thereon that a suit priority certificate has been issued.

Q.—Is unwaxed canned fruit on the ration list?

A.—Yes, unwaxed canned fruit is rationed because it is in very short supply and is required by certain individuals who are invalids and could not be sure of obtaining supplies if it were unwaxed.

Please send your questions or request for the pamphlet "Consumers' News" or the Blue Book of Rationing to the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, 100 King Street West, Toronto.

History Of Vancouver

Sixty Years Ago It Was a Scattered Collection Of Shacks

Just sixty years ago Vancouver was a small, scattered collection of shacks in the forest on the shore of Burrard Inlet. On January 8, 1886, a group of residents of the village then known as Granville, appointed a committee to seek incorporation of the settlement as a city.

On January 13, 125 villagers signed their names to a petition for a city charter, on April 2 the charter was granted by the provincial Legislature. The name of the village was changed to Vancouver.

Two months later, on June 13 the entire settlement was wiped out by fire. Vancouver-News Herald.

Railroad Safety

Number Of Weeks In Central States

The number of railroad wrecks (in the U.S.) brings rail safety to the fore as a subject of public concern. The causes have been various. Lack of all the good, the bad, the train imposed on old equipment and insufficient manpower by military demobilization, plus a big load of domestic freight and civilian travel.

But those conditions are not an excuse for a breakdown in safety. They merely impose an obligation to take extra care.

If the railroads would make use of known methods of communication and signaling, there ought never to be another collision. It is possible to communicate by radio both ways between trains and dispatchers, or from train to train.

Moreover, there is such a thing in the world as radar. If such a device can penetrate the clouds to locate a hostile airplane or a ground target, it must be possible to use it to show an engineer whether there's another train on the track ahead of him.

Never Too Late

English Farm Worker At 83 Has Learned To Read

All his long life John Mullinger, of Spalding, Lincolnshire, had got along without being able to read.

As a farm worker at Holbeach, Bank, near Spalding, he started work when he was nine—John had not had much time for books or papers.

But when the war started and the raids made it quite a personal affair for old John, he decided he'd better learn to read so that he could keep abreast of the things.

Now, at 83, John has learned to read—and he devours all newspapers.

Milwaukee News helped with the war. It was used to give buoyancy to naval life preservers.

Modern War Brides Are Lucky

From the doorstep of her home over-sea until she steps off the train at her destination this 1946 war bride is lucky after like a pilot once.

Of the 20,000 who have come, not one has been lost any the authorities, and out of this vast number of war marriages only 23 wives have asked to be returned to their homes.

Ever since plagues of war when Canada was just emerging from the wilderness, but ships have been coming to these shores.
First it was the French King who sent young girls to Canada to marry the early settlers along the St. Lawrence.

Then the English bride ships came "around the Horn" with the wives for pioneers along the west coast from California to Victoria, long before the 49th parallel was thought of. Many west coast settlers have traced their ancestry back to these girls who made that fearful journey of over ten thousand miles by sea.

Now the're coming again by the thousands—girls from the British Isles, from Holland and France, from Denmark and Swed-eland, Norway, Belgium, British Guiana, New Zealand, Australia,
India, Ceylon, Cape Town, Malaya, Egypt and from our nearest neighbour, New Zealand.

The London War Brides office, are insured with applications.
Canada House has a waiting list of around 500 with a first priority rating. Invariably there are 100 applications of that priority.
Some of these so-called "brides" have been married as long as five or six years. Many of them have children. And what the WBPB is doing to provide comfort for these little new settlers in Canada.
King, The Prime Minister's Administration in Montreal is at his wife and to provide the necessities of life for them.

Imagine a ship's requisition sheet asking for paper, diapers for the children, soap, and supplies. It is to be the custom, and liver oil, plum and blue hunk blankets.

There's coming on everything that floats from a cigarette to resist from ships. There came on a flying the Pioneer. Some come on tramp steamers, luxury ships.
A few come by air. A special mail is required for this, and no child under 10 can cross the Atlantic by air.

January was a low month—501 were booked for Canada. But we expect to receive between 500 and 5500, according to shipping space.

Wives of Air Force men already number 2317, with 679 children and 1900 still to come.
The minute a wife registers the long story begins. Once under was the great wheels of destiny begin to turn. She is given everything from the baggage labels to hotel accommodation with meals from her home to the new home delivered for her.

Once aboard ship, she and her children are looked after by Red Cross workers, and when they check, immigration officials go aboard to complete the formalities to which make them Canadian citizens.

Then they are placed on trains and start across Canada. It's a long journey from a little English village to Canada, but they're making it by the thousands and look comfortably fit and happy when they arrive.

They sleep at the plentiful hotels, they're given, and the quantity of food served with their meals on the trip. For one breakfast, for instance, they may have what would be a wife's portion of bacon and a month's portion of shell eggs in England. Two one-half slices of bacon and two eggs.

They think it pretty nice.

When farmers become less bitter at their lot we will have a lot better farmers.

Live people always climb towards higher ground.

Some of us would not be so interested in getting to the top in life if more of us were interested in making life tops.
